Welcome to the BMF 2022 Handbook

After two years of living with coronavirus, one of the most impressive things about the building materials sector is its adaptability and resilience.

Huge demand for building work and the materials required to undertake that work inevitably led to issues with product availability and supply. Our central role with the Construction Leadership Council's Product Availability Group brought together manufacturers, merchants, contractors, housebuilders and SME builders to develop the widest possible picture of availability issues and find ways to work around them; in the process, demonstrating the merchants' essential role in managing stock and helping customers get the products needed to continue work on site.

One of the positives I'm taking away from the pandemic is this new spirit of collaboration throughout the construction industry. The Construction Leadership Council is an excellent illustration. Another prime example is the merger of The Institute of Builders Merchants with the BMF.

The timing wasn't quite right when this merger was first proposed in 2018. Now the fusion of two aligned organisations opens up career-long training and development opportunities. Our ultimate ambition is to achieve Chartered status for the IoBM, promoting our fantastic industry to a wider, more diverse talent base.

Skills development is a key element of the BMF's mission for our members. From 2022, LEAP our new full-service apprenticeship provider will significantly enhance and strengthen the BMF Apprenticeship Plus offer and extend this service to merchants in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland as well as those in England.

Collaboration across the industry will also help to deliver a cross industry change programme to drive carbon out of all parts of the supply chain by 2050.

The government has challenged every one of us to reduce our carbon footprint and I am proud that BMF merchant and supplier members were extremely well represented amongst the initial cohorts achieving CO<sub>2</sub>nstructZero Business Champion status. The BMF Sustainability Forum provides a platform to share knowledge and promote discussion as we seek to build excellence together.

Whatever the year brings, the BMF will remain constant in our support for members: Building your people and their skills; Building your business; and Building our industry's voice. Working together as one supply chain to achieve our vision of enabling our members to build excellence in building materials supply.

John Newcomb
BMF Chief Executive

2 Training & Development

2.1 BMF training and development

The BMF runs a wide range of training and skills development for employees of merchants, distributors and suppliers. We have training prospectuses for both merchants and supplier members. Our courses are taught by tutors, experts in their subjects, and can lead to nationally-recognised qualifications. We have a flexible way to learn and enhance skills with BMF training options: product knowledge, management and leadership development and operational and commercial development. We can offer courses held at BMF Coventry and other regional venues or "in-company" when we come to you.

The BMF have developed a Training Roadmap for both Merchants and Suppliers, listing BMF training courses which is a multi-lateral visualisation of training, meaning that it can be done in various pathways. There is not a prescribed path of progression. There are no rules for the order or number of training courses to be undertaken, but

BMF Training Roadmap for Suppliers

The Institute of Builders Merchants (IoBM)

In a move designed to benefit the whole industry, The Institute of Builders' Merchants (IoBM) has now merged with the BMF and is separately managed and operated as a brand within the BMF.

At the IoBM AGM/SGM held on 27 April 2021, members approved the merger that will give the Institute access to wider resources and personnel whilst retaining its own management body.

The new arrangement, which was effective from 1 May 2021, sees the assets, activities, and membership of the IoBM transferred to the BMF, with the Institute then managed by a new Management Committee comprising the CEO and Membership Services Director of the BMF, the Chair and Vice Chair of BMF Young Merchants and two existing Institute Board Members.

All Institute Members maintained their current membership grade upon transfer, subject to the payment of annual subscriptions.

Moving forward, IoBM Membership grades will be aligned with BMF training, other accredited courses and qualifications including in-company training where relevant. Membership will be available to all individuals employed within the builders' merchants' industry.

The IoBM Charity Trust, which provides grants to support the Institute and for training purposes, continues to operate under the existing Trustees, with the BMF having nominated two additional Trustees to assist.

This energising fusion of two aligned organisations serving the merchant industry will open fresh opportunities, while maintaining the traditional values of the IoBM. The Management Committee together with the BMF Board has pledged to develop and publish a 3–5-year strategic plan, mapping the pathway for the Institute's development.

2.4 BMF Apprenticeships Plus

A Great Leap Forward

BMF Apprenticeships Plus has been relaunched to offer a unique approach to the recruitment and management of apprentices. This newly created partnership with LEAP Apprenticeships and Early Careers is specifically designed and regulated to support both large and small members who wish to take advantage of the many benefits of an apprentice.

LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers will manage the process from beginning to end and monitor monthly payments to training providers and claim additional learning support and employment incentives on the employer's behalf. The service can be used for both new apprentices and existing employees who are being upskilled. If required, BMF Apprenticeship Plus and LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers can also help companies to recruit suitable apprentices.

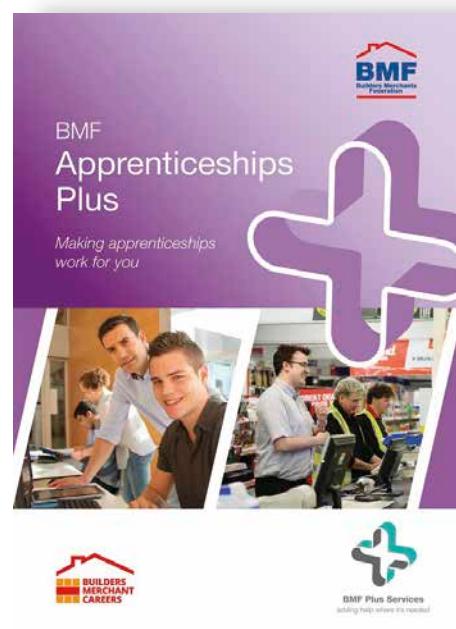

Option One: LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers will support your business to advertise and recruit a new apprentice and identify the BMF apprenticeship development opportunity tailored to your business needs. By discussing your options and your specific business needs LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers will give your new apprentice colleague the very best start in your business and the development they need to become a well-trained and valued colleague.

Option Two: LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers will discuss your current colleagues' personal development and future potential to identify the appropriate BMF apprenticeship to give them the knowledge, skills and behaviours needed to upskill and advance them and your business.

Option Three: LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers will support you through the BMF's accredited Apprenticeship Training Agency (ATA) who will act as the formal employer of the apprentices who are placed with member companies. This removes potential administrative hurdles making it easy for BMF members to take on an apprentice in any job role. The ATA oversees all the administrative aspects of the apprenticeship, providing ongoing HR and training support, sourcing and contracting with LEAP Apprenticeships & Early careers and funding agencies, and undertaking performance management reviews.

Members can access the benefits of BMF Apprenticeships Plus by simply speaking to their BMF Regional Manager or contacting BMF's Learning and Development Manager Kerry Wilson kerry.wilson@bmf.org.uk or call 0247 685 4982

2 Training & Development

2.5 BMF Margin Development Programme

One of the most popular courses that the BMF deliver is 'Maximising Margin' which reflects the fact that many members are under continuous pressure to maintain and improve margins.

Whilst this stand-alone course may result in an improvement in margins, the results are bound to be limited if the sales and negotiating culture within the branches, and indeed the business remain unchanged.

Staff may well be sent on a 'Maximising Margin' course and return to the branch enthused and 'fired up' to increase margins. Upon returning however, they often find that the rest of the branch team, including management simply continue with bad habits and apply discount as usual. In these circumstances it is quite difficult for the team member to follow through with the necessary changes in behaviour, and far more likely that they will simply 'go with the flow' resulting in limited improvement.

The BMF first ascertain that such a programme would be suitable for the member concerned and providing we think we can help you; we are then often asked to tailor the programme to suit individual needs.

Typically, however, the programme would centre around a one-day training course delivered by a specialist trainer who has spent many years in sales and management within the merchant industry. It is important to note that for the Margin Development Programme to be effective all customer facing staff should attend, including Directors and Manager's all the way to Trade Counter and Telephone Sales staff.

This is to ensure that a change of culture within the business takes place, and that the required changes in behaviour in the workplace are driven home. Assistance will be provided before the training takes place to ensure that you are ready for the training to commence. Support will be provided during and after the training phase, and commitment and hard work will be required from the member after the training has finished ensuring that improvements are maintained.

2.7 BMF Campus

The BMF's online learning platform, BMF Campus, has already undergone a significant upgrade as recently as 2019. Enhanced features combined with a responsive mobile-friendly design have ensured that it continues to be the industry standard for online Merchanting training. However, in the fast-paced world of Educational Technology the platform's designers, Cortexta, have just announced a reboot. Expected to launch in February 2022, the site has received a styling makeover to accurately reflect the BMF Learning Academy brand, but the changes are more than skin deep. Important new features will include the facility for learners to book onto both physical and virtual events. This avoids the workload of administering the process via an alternative method, instead keeping learners within their familiar learning environment, and providing a truly blended learning experience. The online booking process also tracks candidate attendance and generates a community that can easily be communicated to, either before or after the event.

The reboot also provides an improved user interface for easier navigation, with courses and events displayed clearly front and centre. The richer experience ensures that all new content is quickly accessible whilst the extensive range of existing courses can be filtered, reviewed, and accessed efficiently.

Merchant suppliers have always been major supporters and contributors to the BMF Campus site but much of this was previously restricted to offering product courses. This is all set to change with the opportunity for suppliers to become truly immersed in this learning community. BMF supplier members can now subscribe to the training bundles for their own staff and will have the ability to book onto BMF live events and schedule their own physical or virtual events for merchants to book onto and attend. The other major addition to this development is that suppliers can upload helpful resources such as videos and product guides to their own supplier page so that merchant learners have one repository of product information they can reach when they most need that information. Product updates and new information can therefore be disseminated quickly and directly to merchant staff.

Bemis Ultra-Fix® Doesn't loosen!

The Professional Toilet Seat Fixing System

Bemis Ultra-Fix® is a patented hinge fixing system that will actually keep your toilet seat tight.

How does it work?

First, a unique finned bushing flexes to provide a snug fit in any toilet pan mounting hole and prevents movement.

Secondly, the one-piece plastic nut provides superior clamping force, eliminates fumbling with individual nuts, rings and washers during seat installation, and resists corrosion.

And third, the bottom of the nut snaps off at the optimum tightening torque, locking the seat down perfectly tight.

The Result

An easy to fit, secure seat. Saving you time and costly call outs! Toilet seats with the Bemis Ultra-Fix hinge system never loosen.

2.11 Building Materials Careers

The BMF Building Materials Careers website encourages more people to join the building materials sector by highlighting the wide range of careers available both in merchant and supplier businesses.

The campaign follows policy research with members who told the BMF they wanted the Federation to help promote the widest possible range of job opportunities in the industry, fostering diversity and inclusion, helping members to recruit a workforce from a wide range of backgrounds and experience.

Attracting and developing talented people in to the industry will continue to be a main BMF strategic goal.

The website – www.buildingmaterialscareers.com – promotes apprenticeships, life-long learning and gives members the opportunity to manage their job advertisements free of charge, using the 'Advertise A Job' facility. Potential apprentices and employees will then be able to easily locate these roles, using the region, sector and location search filters.

The website features merchant and supplier employees' video profiles. Each profile explains how they came to work in the materials supply industry and what they like about their specific job. Job seekers will be inspired by the range of career opportunities available to them in the building materials industry, no matter what educational qualifications they achieved at school or university.

This website provides BMF members with an additional channel to promote their own job vacancies free of charge, and many have taken advantage of this member benefit on the previous website. The logos of the companies supporting the campaign are displayed on the site's "Member Employers" page, with a direct link through to the careers page on their own websites.

3.1 BMF and Paymentsense

The future of payments: Where are we, and where are we going?

It's hard to remember a pre-COVID world. The pandemic has completely changed the world we live in and how we behave in it.

And the consumer space in particular was one area where our habits shifted so rapidly in such a short space of time. While contactless card payments were increasing steadily across the UK and globally, already, COVID-19 accelerated our contactless usage tenfold, moving a lot of us closer to a completely cash-free lifestyle.

Convenient, quick and most importantly, physically touch free, contactless payment methods provided a perfect solution for minimising touch-points and transmitting germs during the height of the virus. It made sense that business owners adopted and encouraged contactless during this time.

Some businesses, in fact, will have gone from not accepting card payments at all, to now taking them as their main payment method.

So as we shift ever closer to a digitalised world, we want to understand how the future of payments looks now, and how it might look in the next few years.

A cashless future: The big shift from cash to card

The first credit card in the UK made its debut in 1966, and then two decades later in 1987 the UK's first debit card was released also by Barclays, called Visa Delta. It wasn't until 2004 chip and PIN cards were introduced in the UK, and then made mandatory on all British payment cards from February 2006. Barclaycard paved the way again in 2007 as they were the first to adopt near-field communications (NFC), known to me and you as contactless, in their credit cards.

Fast forward to 2021 and our own customer transaction data revealed that 84% of all payment transactions across all UK industries are now made by using contactless, compared to 75% in 2019.

This rise of contactless payments is likely due to germ-free advantage they hold against cash payments.

The future of payments

Thanks to technological advances, the structure of payments has gone through a

Are biometric payments the face of the future?

Using voice, skin, and iris scans for payments has already grown into fruition with Siri helping peer-to-peer transfers with Venmo, Alex, and Google Assistant. As biometric payments offer more security, they have increased in popularity across the globe; there are approximately 3.25 billion voice assistants that are in use today.

Microchips

Microchip payments have grown in popularity over the last few years, as they pride themselves on the quality of being impossible to hack. They are the ultimate contactless payment, as you will now no longer need a secondary item like a card or phone to make a purchase.

Eco-Friendly Cards

With over six billion payment cards being produced every year worldwide, the push to be more sustainable conscious has become even more paramount. In 2020 Mastercard Sustainable Materials looked to assist issuers in providing consumers with more eco-friendly cards. And with more and more people opting for a digital version of their card on their smartphones and wearable devices, this will no doubt reduce the amount of plastic waste.

Edging closer to a digital future

Coronavirus has changed our lifestyles and habits considerably. The convenience of digital payments has shown that cash, and even physical cards are fast becoming outdated for a society that prioritises convenience and ease for consumers and business owners alike. So long as the most vulnerable in our communities are able to access digital payments, they're success is likely to soar.

Automated processes that can free up time give businesses the opportunity to invest their resources in other areas, like future growth or sustainability. So as we move forward, we're looking at a cashless future. Is your business ready? There's no better time to start accepting contactless card payments today with Paymentsense card machines.

3.2 BMF and Specialist Risk Group

There is continued cause for optimism and growth in the UK economy, the construction sector continues to rebound with a growth in residential contracts and contracts delayed due to the pandemic being resurrected. However, the number of Administrations in the construction sector has started to increase in the final months of 2021 as government support mechanisms and the limitations on issuing winding up petitions were withdrawn. There were a total of 62 Administrations in the 4th Quarter of 2021 with 23 seen in October, which was the highest recorded in a single month last year

As we look to 2022 and without the benefit of a crystal ball statistics and experts and pointing to an increase in the volume of insolvencies and this is likely to impact the construction sector. According to trade credit insurer Atradius, insolvencies in the construction sector could rise as much as 25% in the next six months despite a rebound in orders.

Mike Thomas, Director of Risk Services at Atradius, said "With rising orders and output, there are new opportunities building in the construction industry which will continue to drive growth. These include pent-up demand for construction works that were put on hold during the pandemic along with benefits from stimulus measures, an increasing focus on sustainability and growing urbanisation in emerging markets. However, despite the market rebound, competition is intense, profit margins are narrow, late payments are rising and there is a higher proportion of business failures than in most other industries. With insolvencies forecast to increase further, businesses in the sector must be prepared to weather the storm by sourcing comprehensive real-time data on their buyers, a proactive credit management strategy and protection against non-payment."

So what is driving this likely increase in insolvencies?

Material shortages and inflation:

The Consumer Prices Index (CPI) rose by 5.4% in the 12 months to December and whilst the basis of calculation for CPI is questioned by some it certainly points to rising costs for the sector, with fuel costs a significant contributor.

The shortages of materials in sector has inevitably led to a rise in prices, with the Office for National Statistics forecasting a further 7-8% increase in material costs for this year, with timber prices expected to double. Additionally, lead times for exacerbated the issue, something BMF members will be all too familiar with.

Payment Delays:

In addition to disrupted supply chains, it is anticipated that we will see an increase in late payments and pressure on cashflow. With project and funding delays it is anticipated that developers and main contractors will likely push payment terms and exert leverage over their sub-contractors and suppliers and this will in turn impact on the cashflow and creditworthiness of some of these sub-contractors, many of whom will be customers of BMF Members.

Bad Debts hit the bottom line:

According to the CBI/Pearson education and skills annual report published February 2020

Infrastructure and Energy, Fine margins, Delivering financial sustainability in UK construction

The UK average for profitability across all industries is 17.9%. With average margins in construction much lower, for instance, in 2018, the largest 100 contractors in the industry made an average margin of 2.6% on a combined turnover of almost £67bn

So with an assumed margin for SMEs in the construction sector of 12%, the impact of only small bad debts requires a significant amount of additional turnover just to stand still, see below illustration.

This illustrates just how impactful a bad debt can be to a construction firm and this can set in motion a domino effect of insolvencies through the supply chain, which will ultimately impact merchants who are offering customers accounts on credit.

Protecting cash flow in case of non-payment either through a protracted default or an insolvency should be a high priority for every business, so a key question is how do you assess the credit worthiness of a customer/potential customer? It is here that Credit Insurance can be of assistance is by exploring Trade Credit Insurance you will have access to detailed underwriting data that is more sophisticated than a simple credit check, this underwriter feedback will help you determined the creditworthiness of companies before granting credit. If you proceed with cover on a whole turnover basis, you will be able to trade with comfort knowing that your debtor book would be insured for up to 90% and engaging a credit insurer in the event of a loss or protracted default would also alleviate your existing bookkeeping burden, as the insurer will assist in the recovery of moneys owed before ultimately paying out under the policy and pursuing the debt themselves.

Credit insurance is a valuable protection and having this in place can improve your balance sheet by helping you to negotiate more advantageous trading terms.

3.4 BMF Safety Plus

Quick Guide: Safe Loading and Unloading In the Builders Merchant Industry

Deliveries, loading and unloading present some of the most dangerous transport activities in the Builders Merchant Industry. Many accidents involve people being struck by vehicles, being struck by stock falling from a vehicle or people falling from vehicles during loading and unloading activities. Here, Paul Barker from Citation, covers elements you should consider to control the risk associated with loading and unloading activities.

Segregation & Location

- Loading and unloading should be carried out away from pedestrians and in a designated area wherever possible. Use signage to increase awareness and ensure staff direct drivers to the correct area.
- Whilst forklifts load/unload the vehicle, ask the driver to wait in a safe area - such as in a shelter, breakroom or the vehicle's cab.

- Loading and unloading should only be conducted on firm, level ground and should be clear of overhead cables or other obstructions.
- Check that the weather conditions are suitable to carry out the activity. For example, winds can strongly affect items with a large sail area, like fence panels.

The Vehicle

- Before loading and unloading, ensure vehicles have their brakes applied and engine switched off.
- If loading/unloading with a lorry crane, ensure the stabilisers or outriggers have been properly positioned.
- Check the floor of the vehicle before loading to ensure it is safe to load. Look out for debris or broken boarding.

- Ensure the vehicle is the correct rating for the load to be carried. Make sure drivers know their maximum load weights and that they aren't exceeded.

should be worn when working on a vehicle bed.

Shifted Loads

- Loads can shift in transit so assess the stability of the load before removing any restraints.
- Determine a safe system of work for unloading (there may be different systems required depending on what is being unloaded).

Avoiding falls

Falls from vehicles are very common, often caused by slipping while walking on loads, tripping on ropes or torn sheets or falling when climbing onto or off the vehicle.

Wherever possible, work at height should be avoided. Always check whether the work can be done from the ground level first. However, if access to the lorry bed is unavoidable:

Use steps and handholds provided on the vehicle. Where these aren't available or accessible, a footed single section ladder should be used with a minimum of 3 points of contact. Mudguards and wheels should never be used. This also applies when getting down from the vehicle, staff should never jump down!

- Any trip hazards such as loads, straps, bearers, and packing materials should be cleared before access.
- When on the lorry bed, always face the direction you are walking and pay attention to the stability and grip of the surface.
- Standing on the product should be avoided as far as possible.
- A hard hat with a restraining device (e.g. chin strap)

Planning & Communication

Consider the best time to schedule deliveries and collections to avoid busy times of customer or vehicle movements. Visiting drivers should be given relevant site-specific instructions e.g. where to park, load and unload and where to wait safely. Customer parking and retail entrances should also be clearly signposted.

3.5 BMF Health and Safety Guides and Business Guides

The BMF have a Health & Safety Working Group who collate and produce health and safety business guides for members.

As of June 2022, there are 8 health and safety business guides and standards including

- Workplace Transport – in Branch
- Material Handling Storage and Handling – In Branch
- Customer Deliveries on Site
- Working at Height
- Sawmills and Woodworking machinery
- Overarching standards
- Occupational Road Risk
- Tool Hire.

These guides outline the proposed standards to be defined and adopted for BMF member organisations. The intention is that such standards and guidance will create a more formal definition of what constitutes “standard industry practice” or “industry best practice” and will eventually lead to the development of an HSE-agreed Approved Code of Practice (ACoP).

Please email richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk for pdf or hard copies of each or any guide.

3.6 BMF Intelligent Employment Plus

Your culture defines who you are as a business. It should be embedded in everything you do – especially from a people perspective. From recruitment to retention, policies to practices, how you manage performance to how you tackle challenges, a strong culture code will guide your approach and also help reduce potential employment law risk. Here are a few ideas (we've got plenty more!) to set you on your way to building your culture code...

People pulse

Your people documents should encapsulate your approach and bring to life the pulse of your business culture. Shifting employment expectations are steering us away from the traditional, black and white Word documents of yesteryear to engaging, interactive and unique approaches to people documents to set yourself apart from the competition (including contracts, handbooks and beyond). With culture defining policies, innovative drafting and unique designs, these documents can embody your individuality whilst still retaining the legally compliant and commercially robust drafting necessary. Need some inspiration? Here's an example of what we've supported a client to build. Get in touch if you'd like to discuss how we can help your people pulse.

Well-being

Health and Safety Executive statistics show that work-related stress, depression or anxiety accounted for 50% of all work-related ill health in 2020/21. Putting well-being at the top of your culture code agenda is important for so many reasons – boosting morale, reducing absence, promoting your values, to name a few! Many businesses are proactively supporting with mental health champions, whilst more and more businesses are looking at progressive policies and practices around menopause and fertility to further support wider needs of employees. Make sure you support your managers with the right training around any new policies or practices so they have all the tools needed to promote positive well-being and keep conversations going in their teams. Get in touch to find out how we can support.

Influential inclusivity

Diverse businesses are more profitable – you read that right! Fishing from wider talent pools to attract, hire and retain top talent reduces the cost of employee churn and helps drive more innovative strategies and make better business decisions.

Taking an influential approach to inclusivity is more than just a great equality and diversity policy – have you thought about reviewing all of your employment documentation to remove any gendered language? What about creating a 'diversity dictionary' to help colleagues better navigate accepted and agreed terminology? There's loads you can be doing and thinking outside the box that will further set you apart. Don't forget that supporting your teams with the right tools, templates and training will help to enhance your culture code (and reduce potential employment law risks). Get in touch to find out how we can support.

A journey, not a destination Building your culture code should be a journey, not a set destination. It should be challenging and exciting in equal measure and will be ever evolving as your business adapts to changing employment expectations, trading conditions, and legal requirements. Having the right partner with you on that journey can help to provide insight, advice and a sounding board if you need one. Halborns are the recommended employment law partner to the BMF and work with members of all shapes and sizes to take a more contemporary people approach as well as providing robust employment law solutions. Get in touch to explore how partnering with Halborns can benefit your business.

3.8 ETIM

In 2020 the BMF announced an exciting new initiative, endorsed by NMBS, which will help members seeking to digitalise their businesses. The BMF has partnered with the Electrical Distributors' Association (EDA) to develop and implement the ETIM open source data model for the standardisation and classification of product data in the UK.

What is ETIM?

- It is the international data model for the standardisation and classification of technical product data
- It is a logical, unambiguous classification or taxonomy
- It is designed to facilitate the smooth transfer of product data through the supply chain, without any re-working or re-keying
- The data is ready to be used on a website, printed catalogue or BIM product data template
- The ETIM model includes the most important technical characteristics required for a buyer or specifier to find and select the correct product.

Benefits

One of the key benefits of ETIM is that it removes ambiguity and ensures that all users of the product data are using the same terms to describe the same attributes and values. It streamlines the transfer of information, removes inefficiency in the supply chain and facilitates the transition to online trading.

ETIM is a tried and tested model that has been adopted by manufacturers and wholesalers in over 20 countries across Europe, USA, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Initially designed for the electro-technical market, ETIM has expanded to include general building materials and heating, ventilation and plumbing products. It has now developed further to include a 3-D modelling version to provide digitalised data for BIM applications.

ETIM was adopted by the EDA in 2017 as a 'must' for the digitalisation of the UK electrical installation supply chain. The BMF will now start work to bring ETIM to the Building Materials and HVAC & Sanitary sectors.

BMF CEO John Newcomb said: "A straw-poll of our merchant members found that 53% have difficulty in obtaining product data from their suppliers in an easily usable format, and 94% would value readily available and accurate product data."

"With a growing number already doing business online and 65% planning to launch or increase sales from online platforms during the next two years the need for high quality, consistent and updatable digital data is set to escalate. Supporting the introduction of ETIM within our sector fits well with the BMF's mission to help members build excellence within their business."

The BMF began the process of implementation in January 2020. David Bate, who performed a similar role for the EDA, has been appointed BMF's ETIM-UK Project Manager. He leads a number of ETIM Standardisation Working Groups, drawing together expertise from BMF members involved in different product areas, and drives the UK roll-out of the ETIM Classification model for building materials and HVAC through the UK supply chain, comprising manufacturers, merchants, specifiers, contractors and installers.

If you would like further information on ETIM or to be involved in one of the working groups, please contact Dave Bate, BMF's ETIM UK Manager, at dave.bate@bmf.org.uk.

Visit the www.bmf.org.uk/information\_centre/industry-digitalisation to watch the video introducing the ETIM data model.

WHEN YOU NEED MARKET LEADING EFFICIENCY
BRING ON TO THE GRUNDFOS ALPHA3

The ALPHA3 15-50/60 (EEI <0.17) incorporates wireless electronics that enable hydraulic balancing and monitoring via a smartphone (using the Grundfos GO BALANCE and Grundfos GO REMOTE apps).

When a heating system is not hydraulically balanced, some rooms do not get enough heat. The traditional solution is to turn up the pump speed, which results in increased energy costs and can cause system noise, overloading of TRVs and prevent the boiler from operating efficiently.

The ALPHA3 is the only pump available that allows the installer to easily hydraulically balance a system. Saving time and energy. Discover more grundfos.co.uk/alpha3

4 Industry Data

4. Access to Market Data and Statistical Reports

The BMF provides members with several statistical business reports throughout the year that enable them to benchmark performance in a number of different areas.

4.1 BMF Remuneration Survey

The annual BMF Remuneration Survey covers salaries and benefits for various employees, with roles ranging from branch managers to warehouse assistants. The data is compiled from reports completed by a large proportion of our Merchant members throughout the UK and is split both by region and aggregated nationally. The survey results include comparisons of a range of other benefits offered including company cars and car allowances, private healthcare, bonuses, and long service benefits. They also reveal how different regions deal with sickness benefit and overtime payments.

Other Employee statistics covered in the report are the number of male and female staff as a percentage of the total. The number of apprentices is also reported as a percentage of the total. If you are a Merchant member and wish to submit your data or request a copy, please contact richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk. Please note all data received will remain confidential and individual company data will not be published.

4.2 BMF Sales Indicators

BMF Sales Indicator report is compiled every month from sales turnover information from a mix of National and Independent merchant members' outlets. Builders Merchant sales nationally are adjusted for both price inflation and trading days. BMF and Phocas (a BMF Service Member) have teamed up to produce the BMF Sales Indicators, bringing with it greater analytics and functionality. An online member area has been developed within the portal for data submission. The Sales Indicator Report is sent out monthly to members who either pay for the service or regularly contribute. As a Merchant member, if you would like an account to contribute your data or purchase an annual subscription, please contact Richard Ellithorne at richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk.

4 Industry Data

4.3 BMBI

The Builders Merchant Building Index (BMBI) is a brand of the BMF. Launched and managed by MRA Marketing, it uses sales-out data from GfK's General Builders' Merchants Panel. The report includes a panel of leading industry experts who help explain trends, issues and opportunities in their markets. GfK's Builders Merchants Panel started collecting data in July 2014, and all trend data in the BMBI is indexed on the 12-month period July 2014 to June 2015. The monthly series tracks what is happening in the market month by month and includes an in-depth review every quarter. This trend series gives our industry access to far more accurate and comprehensive data than that available to other construction sectors. The BMBI report is sent out to all our members every month as a benefit of membership. The report combines data from GfK's ground-breaking Builders Merchant Panel, which analyses data from over 80% of generalist builder's merchants' sales throughout the UK, and the BMF's own Sales Indicator report based on monthly returns from a majority of merchant members outlets. It gives our industry access to far more comprehensive data than that available to other construction sectors. The report analyses point of sale data for 12 categories to provide an overall index for the month. A total Builders Merchants index is also provided. There are two tiers of the report available to members, depending on the level of regional sales data members wish to receive from the BMF Sales Indicators. BMF Sales Indicator report now features alongside the BMBI. All members of the BMF can receive the core BMBI report. However, those members who have paid the subscription fee will also receive full insights from the BMF Sales Indicators. The core version still includes a general overview of market performance. Alternatively, merchant members can contribute their monthly sales figures which will be included anonymously into the Sales Indicator report, to receive the full version for no added cost. If you are interested in receiving the full report including Sales Indicators or believe you have been sent the wrong version, please contact Richard Ellithorne by email at richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk.

The Experts

BMBI Experts are the voice of their markets. They make sense of trends for users of the building index. Experts are market leaders or brands who aspire to be leaders. They are companies that can legitimately speak for their markets. This includes explaining issues and opportunities in their markets, and where appropriate making the case for or against legislation, industry schemes or government policy. Experts within the BMBI report cover various sectors of the industry such as Bricks, Paint and Water Heating to provide detailed insight within the extended Quarterly editions of the BMBI report.

In the center, there is a large, translucent green shape resembling a leaf or a drop. Inside this shape, the text "100% RECYCLABLE" and "30% RECYCLED CONTENT" is written in white. The Seevent logo, consisting of the word "SEEVENT" in a bold, white, sans-serif font with a red diamond symbol above the "E", and the tagline "THE STRENGTH IN SACKS" in a smaller font below, is located in the top left corner. At the bottom left, the phone number "t: 01903 755877" and email "e: sales@seevent.co.uk" and website "w: seevent.co.uk" are listed. On the right side, the text "MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICE" is displayed above the slogan "all our packaging is 100% recyclable and contains at least 30% of recycled content".

4.4 BMF Key Performance Indicators (KPI) Report

The BMF's annual Key Performance Indicators (KPI) Report indicates how the trading performance of builder's merchants fared over twelve months compared with the three previous years. The BMF Key Performance Indicators Survey is carried out among BMF merchant member company's mid-year.

We have been fortunate again to be able to continue to expand our core sample of participants. This enlarged number of consistent participants enables consistent results and comparisons with the previous three years that are ever more authoritative. The 15 ratios within the report are just highlights from the findings of the full BMF KPI Report which are available exclusively to BMF Members. The BMF Key Performance Indicator Report uses a core sample of participants that enables a true like for like comparison with previous year's ratios. Please contact Richard Ellithorne at richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk for a copy of the latest report.

4.5 BMF Industry Forecast Report

The Builders Merchants Industry Forecast report incorporates several lead indicators to provide forward visibility of the industry. The Builders Merchants Building Index (BMBI) uses data analysed by research company, GfK, to report on actual sales category performance. While this has enabled users to see which products and regions are currently growing, we have now gone a stage further to meet our industry's need for accurate forecasting. Using the BMBI data coupled with advanced modelling techniques we have developed a channel specific forecasting model to show what is likely to happen in the next 12 months and beyond, making it possible for merchants and suppliers to forecast their customers' requirements more accurately. Going forward, the report will be updated on a quarterly basis and all members receive it free of charge. The report can be downloaded by BMF members once logged in here. If you would like more information or wish to receive the latest edition of the report, please contact Richard Ellithorne at richard.ellithorne@bmf.org.uk

5 Networking Opportunities

5. Networking Opportunities

A whole range of networking opportunities and events are available throughout the year for you to become involved in, share your views with fellow merchants as well as suppliers and service members, feed your ideas back to us at the BMF, and raise issues of concern to you.

5.1 All Industry Conference

This is a major first-class event which brings together suppliers and merchants from across the industry for three-days of dedicated business with top class speakers, seminars and most importantly networking.

The stunning historic city of Istanbul is confirmed as the venue for the BMF All Industry Conference on 15-18 June 2023.

Knauf UK is the headline sponsor for the 2023 conference. Knauf UK succeed Crystal who have headlined the last 2 BMF conferences.

The city of Istanbul dates back to the 7th century and is often mistaken as the country's capital. This magnificent history laden city is hailed one of the most beautiful in the world, and is the only city that connects two continents, Europe and Asia. The fusion of Asian and European culture can be seen throughout the whole city, from the architecture to the spices that line the Grand Bazaar.

The five-star Swissotel Bosphorus is nestled within 65 acres of historical gardens.

The hotel offers luxury accommodation and exclusive amenities. This award-winning hotel features stylish restaurants serving tastes of the world cuisine, three swimming pools and a fitness centre and spa offering holistic spa treatments. The hotel has been chosen because of its commitment to sustainability and the steps it is taking to become carbon neutral.

Sustainability is at the forefront for this conference. As transport makes up 15% of global CO<sub>2</sub> emissions, to offset emissions, the BMF will be planting a tree for every delegate attending the event. We will be using local suppliers, reducing shipping costs and emissions, reducing single use materials and using recyclable materials for branding and signage. The Conference App will reduce the need to print leaflets and agendas. The 2023 Conference is going to be the most sustainable BMF event ever!

We are very pleased to announce that Mark Durden-Smith will be hosting the conference. Mark is well known to sports fans as he has led premiership and World Cup rugby coverage as well as presented European Golf, international cricket, Spanish football and the daily round-up Sky Sports Centre.

Away from sport, Mark has guest hosted This Morning and reality show spin-offs I'm A Celebrity...Get Me Out Of Here Now!, and Hell's Kitchen Extra Portions.

The Conference theme Creating Connections will provide a thought-provoking event, with a range of topics designed to explore how supply chain collaboration and industry connections can help members build excellence into every aspect of their businesses.

For more information please visit www.bmf.org.uk/events or email june.upton@bmf.org.uk.

5.2 Members' Annual Conference and Awards

The BMF Members' Annual Conference 2022 will be held at St George's Park in Burton on Trent. The social activities will take place on the 14 September 2022, which consists of the JCB Golf Tournament and Evening BBQ or Laser Combat, Climbing Walls and Archery.

The Business Conference and the BMF's black-tie Awards Dinner, which celebrates the achievements of young people working in the industry, take place on 15 September. The Conference and Awards take the theme Sustaining Excellence.

The Conference will be hosted by former TV and radio broadcaster, Jason Mohammed.

The BMF thanks Conference headline sponsors, Marshalls and Stonemarket, as well as First Event and JCB, sponsors of the laser combat, climbing walls and archery day and the golf tournament.

To book your place please visit www.bmf.org.uk/events or email june.upton@bmf.org.uk.

5.3 Mastermerchant

The BMF Mastermerchant challenge, sponsored by Natural Cement, is contested by up to 16 teams over a weekend in the Lake District, battling to win the industry's annual team building trophy. This year's event will be held 8-10 July in Ambleside.

While everyone who takes part has great fun, the weekend also has a serious purpose. The competition is designed to help colleagues learn about each other – their strengths and skills – and what can be accomplished through teamwork. After a weekend working together to overcome a range of challenges, they are more likely to go the extra mile to help each other back at work.

For more information please visit www.bmf.org.uk/events or email june.upton@bmf.org.uk.

5.4 Burns Supper

The BMF Burns Supper is an annual black tie event in January celebrating an evening of Scottish tradition and is now the BMF's most popular and prestigious event in Scotland. Due to covid restrictions we were unable to hold a Burns Supper event in 2022, but it is due to make a return in 2023.

In 2020 the BMF raised £7,500 to share between its charity partners – Mental Health UK and Samaritans, at its Burns Supper held in the Hilton Dunblane Hydro.

Attended by over 280 guests, the event which celebrates the life and works of the poet Robert Burns, has become the BMF's flagship annual event in Scotland. Attracting members from both sides of the Scottish border, it is one of the Federation's main fundraisers each year.

The 2023 Burns Supper will be sponsored by Velux and held on 27 January at the Sheraton Grand Hotel & Spa in Edinburgh.

If you need any further information about this event please visit www.bmf.org.uk/events or contact: June Upton at june.upton@bmf.org.uk.

5.6 Forums

The BMF's industry segmentation strategy is to grow and develop our forums which play a key role in engaging with members and recruiting new members who wish to join the forum and gain access to the group. The BMF now runs 18 Forums serving different interest groups. They play a major part in broadening the BMF's relevance and appeal to different sectors of the industry and membership and highlight the value of the Federation to a wide range of professionals operating within our membership base.

BMF Forums provide a unique platform to discuss the latest and most relevant issues, while input from members at the various Forums gives them a powerful voice outside the industry.

Allowing members to voice their views and concerns on matters provides an opportunity for the BMF to assist in its campaigning work to inform government and influence legislative policy on behalf of members.

BMF Forums are also excellent for sharing best practice, knowledge and information for our members and they are free to attend with up to two people per organisation attending.

We have eight Sector specific forums: Kitchens & Bathrooms, Plumbing &

Heating, Roofing, Decorating, Timber, Civils & Infrastructure and Bricks, Blocks and Landscaping, Insulation & Dry Lining, Tools, Fixings & Workwear/PPE Forum.

We have eight functional specific Forums: Finance, HR, Health & Safety, Transport & Distribution, Marketing, Digital & Technology, Sustainability and Supplier & Service. The Branch Managers' Forum is a chargeable two day training event.

A member of the BMF team is assigned to manage at least one of these forums.

The Builders Merchants' Federation exists to foster business-friendly conditions for its members. Policy and public affairs means influencing parliaments and governments to explain the role, value and importance of merchants - and the Federation itself - in delivering for local communities.

The BMF strives to ensure the voice of its members is heard so their interests can be properly considered. In an ever-changing world, this is a vital service, especially for small independents. We are more effective in doing so than individual companies - not least, because BMF membership is at its highest level for nearly thirty years. Collectively, our merchants represent approx. 85% of the trade by turnover. This makes us the fourth largest trade association in construction and we are the 'commentator of choice' for the building materials' supply chain.

6.1 Consulting and Lobbying

The BMF provides government, local authorities and other bodies with coherent, balanced and convincing input to inform strategy, shape policy, and decide funding arrangements. We screen proposals for unintended consequences, detrimental impacts and inconsistencies - where possible, we give alternatives in favour of our members.

We collaborate with more industry partners and property professionals than ever before - and participate in industry-led alliances like the Construction Leadership Council, the Scottish CICV Forum and the Wales Construction Federation Alliance - to present a united front to government and to lobby for shared objectives. We provide a unique perspective because merchants are the most efficient route-to-market for materials and products from quarries, sawmills, brickworks, factories and ports.

When dealing with politicians or journalists, the BMF message is clear. Our USP is that buildings & structures (especially housing) are not erected, nor are properties (especially homes) repaired, maintained or improved without the primary materials and valued-add products that our members make, stock and deliver.

6 Industry Representation

6.2 The Year Ahead

We are working on major policy issues affecting you over the next 12-18 months, notably:-

- narrowing the gap between housing demand & supply towards the 300,000 homes target in England (including delays due to phosphate & nitrate pollution).
- improving the thermal & energy performance of buildings towards net zero by 2050 (including lobbying for a properly-funded 20-year National Retrofit Strategy).
- introducing the new UKCA Marking to assess and certify materials & products that replaces CE Marking on 31 December 2022.
- implementing the new Construction Products Regulations that will regulate the marketing & supply of goods and define a safety-critical list of goods.
- decarbonising road transport to reduce pollution (including clean air zones and banning new petrol & diesel cars and vans by 2030 and HGVs by 2035 or 2040 depending on tonnage).

- electrification of homes by transforming the heating market to compel boilermakers to manufacture heat pumps - on the way to banning all new gas mains connections by 2026.
- preparing for a new mandatory water efficiency label for products - and a more stringent minimum water standard of 110 litres per person per day in new build.

The best way for BMF members to engage and play an active role is to attend:

- regional meetings, typically held at one of our members' premises, in spring and autumn.
- forums dedicated to material or product categories like (for example) insulation & drylining, timber, decorating, and civils & infrastructure.

- forums that relate to a business function or specialism like (for example) finance, transport, human resources, and digital & technology.
